Conjunctivitis Outbreak:

Expert advises regular hand-washing.

Medical expert advises regular hand-washing to avoid contracting a viral and bacterial infection of the eye currently sweeping the country.

The infection known as 'conjunctivitis' is the inflammation of the conjunctiva, a thin, filmy membrane that covers the white portion of the eye. The conjunctiva, which produces mucous to coat and lubricate the surface of the eye, contains the blood vessels that can be seen on close inspection. The medical expert further warns people to keep their hands away from the eyes and wash their hands before and after applying medications on infected children. The infection is highly contagious.

Signs & Symptoms of conjunctivitis include:

pinkness or redness in the eye, inflamed inner eyelids, blurred vision, and irritation of the eye giving rise to pus and watery discharge from the eye.

People should avoid sharing towels, washcloth, cosmetics, or eye-drops with others. People affected should seek medical attention immediately.
